

Research Reports

Report 20-895

May 2020

Arland Thornton, Jeffrey Swindle,
Prem Bhandari, Linda Young-DeMarco,
Nathalie Williams, Christina Hughes

Developmental Idealism and Migration:
Theorizing their Relationship and an
Empirical Example from Nepal

POPULATION STUDIES CENTER Research Reports

The Population Studies Center (PSC) at the University of Michigan is one of the oldest population centers in the United States. Established in 1961 with a grant from the Ford Foundation, the Center has a rich history as the main workplace for an interdisciplinary community of scholars in the field of population studies.

Currently PSC is one of five centers within the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The Center receives funding from both the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (P2C) and the National Institute on Aging (P30).

PSC Research Reports are prepublication working papers that report on current demographic research conducted by PSC-affiliated researchers. These papers are written for timely dissemination and are often later submitted for publication in scholarly journals.

The PSC Research Report Series was initiated in 1981.

Copyrights for all Reports are held by the authors. Readers may quote from this work (except as limited by authors) if they properly acknowledge the authors and the PSC Series and do not alter the original work.

Population Studies Center
University of Michigan
Institute for Social Research
PO Box 1248, Ann Arbor, MI 48106-1248 USA
www.psc.isr.umich.edu